DIRE THREATS OF SCIENCE. How the Chemist Would Take Away the Joys of Human Life.

Wonderful things are going to be done by the development of synthetic chemistry between now and the year 2000 if Professor Berthelot, the French savant, is to be believed. The food and drink producing animals and vegetables will not then be encouraged to exist for human life, but food and drink will be manufactured difood and drink will be manufactured di-rect and to order by man himself, and served in highly geneontrated tablets, vest pocket size. A person may carry about him two or three table d'hote dinners complete, from blue point systers or little neck clams to crackers, cheese and coffee, and tobacco, and with all his wine and cegnac included. This change will be brought about, it is said, by the remarkable progress being made in compounding food and drink from their constituent elements—carbon, hydrogen, constituent elements—carbon, hydrogen, oxygen and nitrogen. It has advanced so far already that the preparation of beefsteak from its elements is assured and nicotine, the essential principle of to-Life, indeed, would not be worth the living should the professor have his way, says the Boston Globe. The ready made tablets of food and drink would be horribly alike to the eye, the taste and the un derstanding; eating and drinking would be purely mechanical; good fellowship and wit and imagination would depart and existence would be utterly material and dull.

Mrs. Langtry, with all her "crow's feet." is not to be sneezed at for a mighty ever woman. The best about the Jersey Lily is, she is not dependent on that pre miere jeunesse we read about for her aton; nor is she anything of an actress, but she surely is a clever woman, and a woman who is that remains so to the end of the chapter.

Colobrated Man on a Colobrated Railread

Celebrated Man on a Celebrated Railread, Gen. Lew Wallace, the renowned seldier, statesman, traveler and author, pays this compliment to the Chicago, Milwankee & St. Paul railway in the St. Paul Evening News-Record, Oct. 6, 1894;
"I have traveled all over the United States and Europe, but never before have I soon such magnificant train services as I enjoyed on 'The Milwaukee, between Chicago and St Paul, The private compartment cars are superior to anything of the kind I ever saw.'

The trains referred to by the author of "Ben Hur" are vestibuled throughout, heated by steam, lighted by electricity and arranged with the famous electric berth reading lumb.

Think Coach on the North-Western Limited between St. Paul, MinneVery apolis and Chicago is the greatest institution in modern railway travel I ever ran across—or rather rode in—and I have traveled a few miles myself since I was able to go it alone. That Coach means solid comfort to a fellow and makes a long journey a delightfully short one. By all odds it is the best feature of the best train I ever rode on."

"There To public favor any more than to learning. This is true, at all events, in America, where intrinsic excilence is necessary to secure and retain the popular favor. The reason the North-Western Line is one of the most popular railroads is that it service is not only always up to date but away ahead of the date. In our opinion, this is the Best Line between Chicago an the Twin Cities.—The Excursionist, Chicago. Excursionist, Chicago.
